Registering the death	Complete
Contact the doctor (GP) or hospital about obtaining the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death OR Contact the coroner's office to find out when you may be able to register the death
Telephone the Registrar of Births and Deaths to make an appointment to register the death you can find your local Registrar by going to www.gro.gov.uk/gro/content/deaths
Take the medical certificate of cause of death to the register office and tell the Registrar how many copies of the death certificate you need. (The executors should ensure that the person who registers the death purchases at least six copies of the death certificate)
Complete the Notification or Registration of Death (BD8) form that you were given by the Registrar of Deaths

Who you should inform immediately	Complete
Tell family members and friends about the death
Employer or educational establishments
Health professionals. You will also need to cancel any outstanding hospital, dental, podiatry or other health related appointments
Agencies providing care such as social services, home carers, meals on wheels and day centres

Walking you through the decisions

The Will	Complete
If there is no will, you will need to make an application to the probate registry for a grant of letters of administration. Under the grant, you will be appointed as administrator and given the legal right to deal with the deceased's estate
If there is a will the first task is to identify who has been named as the executors (usually there will be more than one). Executors have the responsibility of sorting out the deceased's affairs
If the deceased hasn't made their wishes known on this issue of burial or cremation the choice of funeral is the decision of the next of kin and family. Once decided inform your funeral director and proceed with arranging further funeral details
If the deceased has made a decision of their choice of funeral then inform your funeral director and proceed with arranging the further funeral details
